STABILITY IS CONSERVATIVE AIM, ASSERTS NEW PREMIER

Baldwin Speaker At Lord Mayor's Reception

BRILLIANT SHOW

Hope Of Co-operation From America Is Voiced

GUILDHALL RECEPTION
(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 10.—There were the customary brilliant scenes in the historic library at the Guildhall tonight on the occasion of the Lord Mayor's reception.

The glittering uniforms, the multi-colored frocks of the ladies and the scarlet and black robes contrasted with the sombre Ministerial levee dress.

The successive arrivals of the foreign Ambassadors and British Cabinet Ministers were greeted with handclapping, but a warm vocal reception, which is unusual at these gatherings, was accorded Mr. Winston Churchill.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain, toasting the Foreign Ambassadors, declared that he spoke not only in name of Great Britain but of the overseas Dominions. He referred to the importance of preserving the unity of the Empire, the intercourse between the various parts of which, he said, should be intimate and constant, and enable them to speak to the world in a single voice.

The speaker paid a tribute to the League of Nations. He alluded to the Empire's peaceful aims and its desire for more intimate friendship with its war-time allies.

In conclusion, Mr. Chamberlain welcomed the co-operation of the United States and expressed the hope that that co-operation would not be withheld in the difficulties confronting the world.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who had a very enthusiastic ovation, humorously likened Mr. Churchill and Mr. Chamberlain to the City of London's traditional giants, Gog and Magog: "one will guard the pockets of the people; the other will guard our policy abroad."

The Prime Minister declared that the main aim of the Government was to secure stability.

SYNDICALISTS ARE BLAMED IN SPANISH REVOLT

Government Now Has Situation Well In Hand, Says Madrid Dispatch

(Reuter's Service)

Madrid, Nov. 10.—The general opinion is that the encounters at Vitoria and Barcelona and the arrests at Perpignan indicate that there was a concentrated movement by a small revolutionary group, apparently syndicalists. It is believed that the Government has this situation well in hand.

46 ARRESTS MADE

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, Nov. 10.—A message from Madrid says that about 46 arrests have been made, including two ex-deputies, both extreme Republicans.

(Reuter's Service)

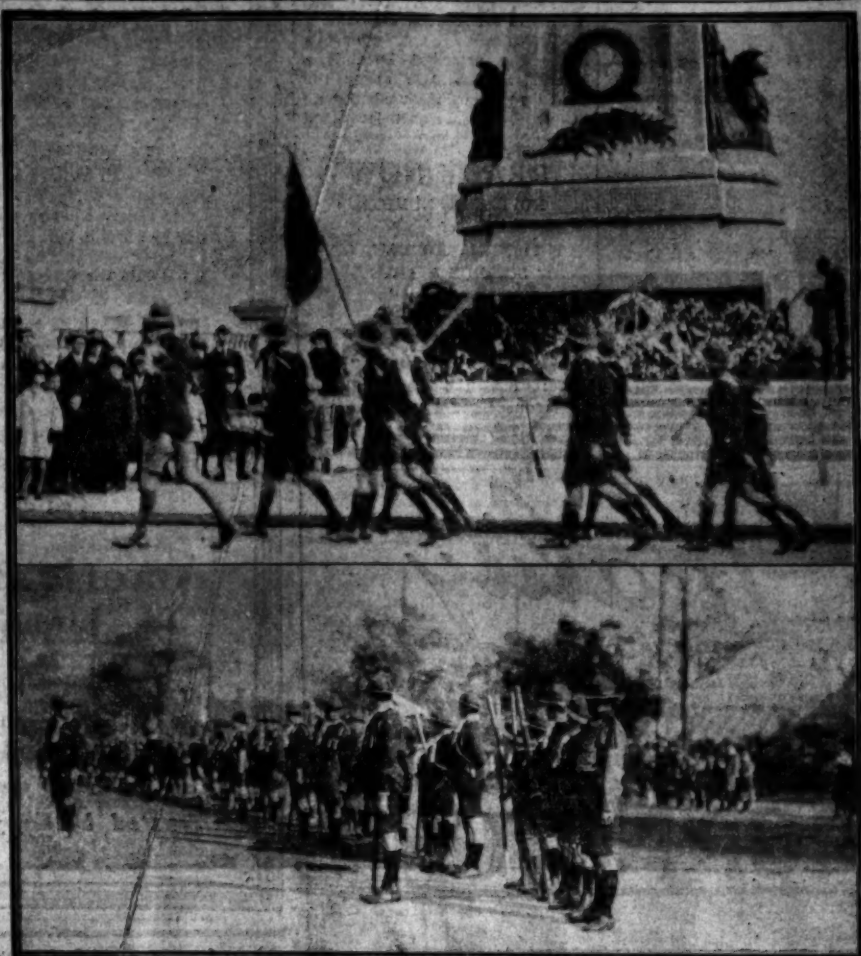

Barcelona, Nov. 10.—Two of the men who were accused of participating in the collision with the police on November 6, in which one policeman was killed and one wounded, were tried by Court Martial on Saturday and executed this morning.

(Reuter's Service)

Madrid, Nov. 10.—According to the Madrid papers, the Directory has decided to reinforce the civil guard on the Franco-Spanish frontier.

Madrid, Nov. 10.—The general impression is that the revolutionary movement in the North-East has been definitely suppressed. The affair seems to have been badly organized. The plot is ascribed to political supporters of the old regime.

CROWDS FLOCK TO LONDON FOR ARMISTICE DAY

File Past Grave Of Unknown Warrior In Westminster Abbey

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 10.—London is unusually crowded today, not merely because of the Lord Mayor's Show which has linked up the Thirteenth and Twentieth Centuries in pageant, color and costume, but because of the preparations for tomorrow's ceremony at the Cenotaph in which 1,300 soldiers, sailors and airmen will participate. H. M. King George, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York will be the principal figures in this demonstration of national mourning which in no way diminishes in impressiveness with the passage of years.

While workmen today were erecting barriers, thousands moved slowly round the memorial adding their tributes to the ever growing mound of flowers on the plinth. Crowds also visited Westminster Abbey, silently filing past the grave of the Unknown Warrior.

Besides services at the Cenotaph and the Abbey tomorrow, there will be services in numerous churches in London. The two minutes silence will be observed throughout the country at eleven o'clock, the signal for which will be given in London by firing a gun in Hyde Park and simultaneously broadcasting the first stroke of Big Ben.

SERVICES AT HONGKONG

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Nov. 11.—Special services were held at the churches this morning in celebration of Armistice Day, after which a large gathering, including members of the Government and the Executive and Legislative Councils, Foreign Consuls, representatives of the Army and Navy, the Volunteers and the mercantile marine and ex-service men, assembled at the Cenotaph. Here an impressive ceremony was held and a two-minute silence observed.

The poppy drive was very successful. Members of the Stock Exchange initiated the sale yesterday evening.

London, Nov. 11.—Parliament will reassemble on December 2.

Solemnity And Gaiety Mixed In Observance Of Sixth Armistice Day

Simple Homage Paid To Fallen Heroes By Shanghai Citizens With Placing Of Wreaths On War Memorial And Cathedral Services

Solemnity and gaiety were mixed yesterday in the observance of Armistice Day, the sixth anniversary of the ending of the Great War of 1914-1918.

The exercises in the morning were solemn and simple, just an expression of homage paid by the citizenry of the Allied nations to the men who trooped to war and failed to return.

The day ended with much gaiety in the various cabarets, cafes, hotels and clubs of the city. Merry-makers kept up their parties until the early hours of this morning, watching reviews, dancing and enjoying the carnival spirit.

Wreaths of flowers were deposited on the Shanghai war memorial on the Bund early yesterday morning, the consuls of Shanghai placing a large wreath with several dozen more left by clubs and individuals.

CONSULS ATTEND

The consular body attended. Senior Consul, Chev. de Rossi, Italy, made a short talk of appreciation to the fallen heroes. The British community held services in the Cathedral at 10:45 o'clock, honoring the 215 men who stayed on the battlefields of France Belgium and other war-torn grounds. A short service preceded a most solemn interval when the crowded Cathedral was silent for two minutes, in memory of those who fell during the Great War, 1914-1918.

A short address was made by the Rector with the singing of "God Save the King" ending the exercises.

Ban On Publicity On Tax Returns Will Be Sought

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, Nov. 10.—The Treasury will ask Congress to enact a law forbidding short session either to repeal or to clarify the provisions on the Tax Laws relating to the publication of income-tax returns.

Many men were dressed in their war-time uniforms. A unit from the British war vessel added to the services.

BOY SCOUTS PARADE

The boy scouts of Shanghai and wolf cubs held a review on the grounds of the British consulate yesterday morning. Fifteen officers, 124 scouts and 141 wolf cubs took part in the parade. The scouts participating included the Jewish school troop, the public school troop, the Cathedral school troop, the French municipal school troop, and the Catholic troop.

The wolf cubs units included the Jewish school pack, the Cathedral girls' school pack, the Cathedral boys' school pack, the Thos. Hanbury school pack, the French municipal school pack, the French municipal school pack, and the Yu Yuen Road school pack. The Rovers did not parade as a troop as so many of them held various ranks with their respective troops and packs.

The usual flag-raising exercises were held at this ceremony. Flags of the Allies were in evidence all over the city yesterday. British, American, French and other national flags were floating in the French Settlement. The tramcars carried French and British flags.

CABARETS OPEN

Cabarets kept open all night last night with hotels dancing until 3 o'clock this morning. Girl reviews were held in each cabaret with special programs at the hotels. The veterans of the war attended the dinner-dances at the Shanghai Club and the French Club. The majority of the British veterans attended the Shanghai Club dinner. There were invited guests.

The United Service Association held its annual dinner-dance at the French Club. Americans, French, Italians, British, and others were there. The dinner was for members only. Guests came in later for the dancing. The Italian Consul General was host yesterday morning between 11 and 12 o'clock in honor of the birthday of H. M. Vittorio Emanuele. The consular corps and Shanghai business men attended the reception at the consulate.

SHANGHAI HAS TWO MILITARY HEADS; BOTH ARE HERE NOW

Ho Feng-lin's Job Filled By Hupeh And Nanking

PEKING ACTIVE

Appointment Of Chang Yung-ming Hits Chi Hsieh-yuan

General Kung Pan-tu, Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan's nominee for the Defence Commissioner of Shanghai, arrived in Shanghai yesterday at noon and has established his headquarters at the Huchow Guild in Chapel. His troops, consisting of the first and second regiments of the sixth division, had preceded him and are stationed at Kiangwan with headquarters at the Industrial Home.

The arrival of Kung further complicates the situation in Shanghai, which now has two defence commissioners, although their Chinese titles differ in character. Kung's title, strictly translated, is that of military commissioner which is considered smaller in rank than a defence commissioner. The other commissioner, Chang Yung-ming who officially assumed office yesterday and whose appointment was gazetted by a presidential mandate on November 7, takes the title of defence commissioner for Sunkiang and Shanghai, succeeding Ho Feng-lin.

The appointment, although gazetted by a government order, does not seem to have the approval of General Chi or the Chekiang Taitai and Commander General. The latter, who insists that the office should be abolished. Both Sun and Chi had previously agreed to allow General Bai Pao-shan, the Kiangsu military leader, to hold the job.

The situation, according to political observers, is worse than ever. While during the administration of Ho Feng-lin the rivalry was between Chekiang and Kiangsu, it has now developed into a three-cornered affair. Recent events indicate a strong difference of opinion between the Kiangsu and Chekiang camps over the division of political spoils, but it is conspicuous that Peking is also showing its teeth to both.

He had just succeeded in ousting Lu Yung-hsiang from Chekiang and Shanghai.

The appointment of Chang is but the wedge to affect a greater split in the near future, it is believed. The hands of Marshal Lu Yung-hsiang, who is now in Tientsin with Marshal Chang Tso-lin

FINAL VERDICT IS EXPECTED IN SOVIET PARLEY

Japanese Ambassador Meet At Peking With Envoy Of Russia

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Nov. 10.—The Soviet-Japanese conference was resumed this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Nov. 10.—At today's meeting of the Japanese and Soviet delegates, Mr. Yoshizawa, acting on the latest instructions from the Tokyo government, submitted Japan's new proposals for a compromise concerning Saghalien rights and at the same time expressed the sincerity of the Japanese Government in the question of withdrawal of Japanese troops from North Saghalien.

In reply, M. Karakhan, the Soviet delegate, after expressing his views in general, declared that he would give his definite answer at tomorrow's meeting. Much importance is therefore being attached by the Japanese delegation to the next meeting which is due to be held at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when M. Karakhan is expected to manifest his final, decisive attitude in connection with the present Soviet-Japanese negotiations.

WORLD SHORTAGE OF WHEAT SEEN; PRICE ADVANCES

Liverpool Market Up Eight Pence Within Past Five Days

(Reuter's Service)
London, Nov. 10.—Wheat rose 2 1/2 pence today in the Liverpool wheat market, making an advance of 8 pence since November 5. A serious world shortage of wheat is now feared. If the drought continues, the Argentine crop will be considerably less than the estimate. The Australian crop has been damaged by rains and the Canadian crop adversely affected by frost.

ANHWEI TO STAY NEUTRAL, BUT NO CLASH EXPECTED

Nanking Obtains Confirmation Of Earlier Reports From Anking

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, Nov. 9.—Reliable sources here confirm the report that Anhwei has proclaimed its neutrality in the conflict between Marshal Wu Pei-fu and General Feng Yu-hsiang. Tull Ma Lien-chia is now in Anking, and the commanders of the Anhwei brigades are at Fengpu, endeavoring to form an alliance to oust the full.

It is not anticipated that there will be any clash between the Kiangsu and Anhwei armies, since the latter do not intend to oppose Kiangsu. The writer went to Fukow and learned that although the armies of the two provinces are encamped alongside of each other at Tungkow they have not yet evinced any signs of hostility. Instead, it is said that there is an understanding between the highest general and Tsuchun Chi-jui, and that they will continue on friendly terms so long as the matter of Anhwei's neutrality remains a purely internal question.

Local authorities deny rumors that General Chen Tiao-yuen, Kiangsu leader, has asserted his allegiance to Marshal Tuan Chi-jui. There have been many rumors in circulation here that General Chen, who is now occupying Hangchow, has allied himself with the forces of Anhwei and Shantung and announced his independence of Kiangsu.

Tsuchun Chi Hsieh-yuan, however, since his return here from Chienju, has shown no concern. On the day following his return he visited the various foreign consuls and later had a long conference with Admiral Tu Shih-kwei.

Reports received at the local Japanese consulate say that Wu Pei-fu has fled to Yingtai, a port near Tientsin. It is expected that he will shortly come to Nanking in an effort to obtain the allegiance of Tsuchun Chi in a drive against the North.

PEKING ORDERS FORTS AT CHEFOO TO OPEN FIRE ON CHIHLI TRANSPORT FLEET

Local Pacification Commissioner Prepares For Bombardment As Wu Pei-fu Postpones Departure For South; Expected To Leave Within A Day Or Two After Obtaining Provisions And Coal

(Eastern News Agency)

Chefoo, Nov. 10.—Marshal Tuan Chi-jui is said to have ordered General Chang Hui-pin, Pacification Commissioner of Chefoo, to bombard Marshal Wu Pei-fu's warships and transport-vessels. Accordingly, the fort here has started making preparations to fire at Marshal Wu's vessels.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 11.—At the instance of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui, it has been decided to appoint General Liu Hsun, former Commander of the 9th Division of the North-West Frontier Army, as Pacification Commissioner of Tientsin as a successor of General Li Yung-tien.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 11.—The vanguard of the Fengtien troops, 3,000 strong, arrived at Tientsin, Shantung, yesterday.

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, Nov. 11.—A representative of Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan, Tsuchun of Kiangsu, who arrived here today, submitted the following three proposals to General Hsiao Yao-nan, Tuchun of Hupeh, and asked for the latter's approval:—

(1) The maintenance of the status quo in Kiangsu, Anhui, Kiangsi, Chekiang, Fukien, Hupeh, Hunan, Szechuan and Shensi.
(2) The opposition to the present Regency Cabinet at Peking.
(3) The approval of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui's assumption of the Presidency.

In this connection, General Hsiao Yao-nan held a conference with a representative, now on a visit here, of General Liu Chien-hua, Military and Civil Governor of Shensi, a representative of General Wang Ju-chin, Commander of the 8th Division, and other leading members in Wu-chang and Hankow. As a result of this meeting, it has been unanimously decided to agree to the above proposals, and a circular telegram has been issued to that effect to the ten provinces referred to above.

FENG AND CHANG READY TO MEET AT CONFERENCE

Son Of Mukden Warlord Guest Of Tuan Chi-jui At Dinner

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, Nov. 11.—Marshal Chang Tso-lin established his headquarters at Tiao's Gardens at Hoptel yesterday afternoon and sent his son to Marshal Tuan Chi-jui's residence, where General Chang Hsueh-liang remained to dinner as Marshal Tuan's guest. It is believed that Marshal Chang will meet Marshal Tuan this morning.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Nov. 10.—General Feng Yu-hsiang, accompanied by some 1,000 bodyguards, arrived at the Central Station here this morning at 8 o'clock.

POLICE CHIEF DISMISSED

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Nov. 10.—At the cabinet meeting today, it was decided to dismiss General Wang Hui-ching, Commander-in-Chief of Metropolitan Police Forces, and to appoint General Mi Chien-pho, Tartar General of Jehol Special District, as the successor.

Taking the foregoing into consideration, Admiral Tu Hsi-kwei, commander-in-chief of the Chinese squadrons, is inclined not to assume the post of Minister of the Navy at present and is now recommending Admiral Lan Chien-shu to the vacancy.

TRANS-ATLANTIC LINER WILL FLY PALESTINE FLAG

Regular Service Under Jewish Auspices Between Haifa and New York

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, October 9.—For the first time in history a trans-Atlantic ship will leave this port on March 17, with the flag of Zion flying from its mast. Officials of the newly formed American Palestine Line announced tonight. Its sailing will inaugurate the opening of a direct steamship service between New York and Haifa, Palestine, under solely Jewish auspices.

The first ship of this line will be the President Arthur, a former German vessel known as the Princess Alice. Negotiations were also under way. The announcement added, for the purchase of the steamer President Fillmore from the United States Shipping Lines. Jacob S. Straus, of Brooklyn, is the president of the company.

Among the novel features of the President Arthur will be a strictly kosher menu and regular synagogue services. The ship, now being remodelled into an exclusive first and second cabin liner, will also be equipped with show rooms where American merchandise and manufactures may exhibit their wares to the purchasers of the Orient.

Shanghai Has Two Military Heads; Both Are Now Here

General Ho Peng-hsi, who still has a strong following here, are clearly seen in the appointment of Chang Yung-ming, who today holds Shanghai with a much firmer grip than the new arrival, whose master, Chi, is fast winning in political power through the defeat of his superior, Wu Peifu.

General Chi has sent the following telegram to Mr. S. T. Wen, Special Commissioner of Foreign Affairs in regard to the question of the Defense Commissioner of Shanghai and Sunchiang:

"In conformity with public opinion, the post of Military Governor of Shanghai and Sunchiang has been abolished and General Chang Yung-ming has been appointed Defense Commissioner of Shanghai and Sunchiang in its place. All Mandates from Peking will be temporarily ignored until the question of Peking Government has been settled. I have ordered General Kung to assume his duties as Defense Commissioner and to notify the public accordingly."

CHAMBER SUPPORTS TUAN

The Chinese General Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent a message to Marshal Tuan Chih-jui, urging him to at once take an active part in the settlement of the political situation. It also sent a message to Marshal Chang Tso-lin, General Peng Yu-hsiang and Marshal Lu Yung-hsiang, asking them to use their influence to enable Tuan to enter Peking and assume the presidency.

The Chamber yesterday addressed a letter to General Kung Pu-fu, the Defense Commissioner appointed by Chi Hsiang-shan, to vacate the Industrial Home and the Widow and Orphan Home at Kiangwan, since the premises were required for the resumption of their respective activities.

From the local Kuomintang headquarters, it is learned that Dr. Sun Yat-sen will arrive in Shanghai on Monday afternoon by a Japanese boat. He will be accompanied by Madame Sun and Mr. Wang Ching-wel. Local labor organizations are planning to tender him an enthusiastic reception upon Dr. Sun's arrival.

The China Evening Post carried a Peking telegram last night to the effect that Marshal Lu Yung-hsiang was marching upon Nan-king with four divisions of Mukden troops along the Tientsin-Pukow Railway. The vanguards were already in the vicinity of Tachow, according to the telegram. As Shantung and Anhui have definitely cast in their lot with Marshal Tuan Chih-jui, the correspondent predicts the fall of Heuchowfu without armed clash, although he believes that serious fighting would be staged between Tungkai and Puchow, Kiangsu.

Marshal Lu would not stop until he had reached Chih-hsiang-shan, Chih-hsiang-shan, Chih-hsiang-shan.

RADIO MEN CONFER WITH SECRETARY HOOVER.

NATIONAL RADIO CONFERENCE.

A.W.C. Players Again Delight Audience In 'A Full House'

Fast and brilliant action characterized the second performance by the American Women's Club at the Carlton Theater last night of "A Full House," the three-act farcical comedy by Fred Jackson. A well-filled house rocked with laughter throughout the evening. It would be no exaggeration to say that there was a laugh every minute. In a well-chosen cast—one of the best we remember seeing on the local stage—Mrs. Gardner Crane conspicuously stood out in the role of Sude, with a pronounced penchant for Sioux City. Some of the best work of the evening was seen in her wondrously funny situations with Mr. Bratton, whose interpretation of the part of the buster "pink" was a fine piece of character study. Mrs. Terry played the part of Odile very effectively, while Mrs. Kingsbury, Miss Fleming, Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. Irons and Mrs. Emery each showed in their respective roles. Mr. Andrews was excellent in the role of Parks the butler, while Mr. Gardner Crane, Mr. Hastings, Mr. Westworth, Mr. Giovannini and Mr. Carey completed a very acceptable cast. It was a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

Chi's Request For 'Relief Funds' Is Spurned By Peking

(Eastern News Agency) Peking, Nov. 10.—The proposals made by General Chi Hsiang-shan and Mr. Hsi Kuo-chun, Tsuchun and Civil Governor, respectively, of Kiangsu Province that the customs surplus be made the revenue of Kiangsu and that taxes be newly imposed upon goods to be imported into that province which are to be employed in relief-funds of Kiangsu were vetoed at today's cabinet meeting.

Search For Opium Brings Gun Arrest

Police suspected Tsien Nyoh-tsun's cook of being an opium runner. Chief Detective Inspector Cruikshank followed Tsien into the house at 312 Shantung Road. A search of the room revealed a Mauser pistol and 100 rounds of ammunition hidden under the floor. Tsien testified in Mixed Court yesterday that he had never seen the pistol before. He was given six months' imprisonment and will be expelled from the Settlement when that is over.

Stability Is Aim Of Conservatives Says New Premier

Government's foreign policy would be stability and continuity (cheers). The Government intended to cultivate good relations with all foreign countries on the basis of the treaties. He declared that this would in no way be a policy of stagnation, as shown by the action of the last Unionist administration, which, he continued, had led directly to the Dawes Report and the London Conference, which, "under the able direction of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, proved so successful."

(Reuter's Service)

Mr. Baldwin expressed gratitude at America's leading part in the negotiations culminating in the London Protocol. He also paid a tribute to the statesman-like attitude of M. Herriot, with which, he declared, such excellent results would have been impossible. He trusted that Germany's admission into the League of Nations would not be long delayed.

As regards Russia and Egypt, Mr. Baldwin said that at present he considered it premature to make any pronouncement.

With regard to Anglo-Indian relations, the Prime Minister did not doubt that with steadfastness and insight a way could be found to preserve the welfare of the peoples of India and to assist their peaceful progress along the paths of economic and constitutional development, in which connection he invited the co-operation of all Indians who believed that the destinies of Britain and India were indissolubly bound (loud cheers).

The late Government, Mr. Baldwin went on to say, did its best to carry out those resolutions of the Imperial Economic Conference, which were not the subject of political controversies, but the large questions of policy affecting the Dominions, like preference and defence, would have to be reviewed by the present Government, while others, like the Geneva Protocol, the Government was pledged to examine in consultation with the Dominions.

WEMBLEY TO CONTINUE

(Reuter's Service)

Mr. Baldwin, continuing, said that all rejoiced at the success of the Wembley Exhibition which had been invaluable in stimulating inter-imperial trade and in extending knowledge of the Empire. The Government did not intend that this great enterprise should come to an untimely end. Practically the whole of the capital expenditure had been already incurred and the cost of reopening next year and thus allowing many more millions of people to see the Exhibition would not be great. Great Britain, he said, would not be able to stand alone in this matter, but the Government would ask Parliament to provide fresh sufficient guarantees if they were adequately supported by the other parties concerned.

Whatever might be the defects of the new administration, Mr. Baldwin declared, it would not fail to seek the co-operation of the Dominions in all things pertaining to the common heritage.

SITUATION IN CHINA

With regard to the situation in China, he declared that if an opportunity arose which they considered would make it possible for foreign influence to help China they would lose no time in consulting other Powers for that purpose.

With regard to home affairs, the Premier concluded, the government would institute a thorough enquiry with regard to high prices, they would immediately grapple with the problems of housing and clearance of slums and do their utmost to improve the social conditions of the masses.

Mr. Bridgman referred to the government's high ideal of using the navy as the best and cheapest form of insurance of the peace of the world without any intention to gratify the lust of ambition and conquest.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans declared that the army had been reduced to a size compatible with its functions. It was small as compared with the duties it had to perform and must therefore be highly efficient and equipped with the best weapons and highly mobile in order to concentrate at any threatened point. The Secretary of State for War concluded by appealing for greater support of the Territorial Army.

APPEAL TO TRADE

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 11.—Following the Prime Minister's Exhibition announcement, Lord Stevenson, chairman of the Board of the Wembley Exhibition, states that it is up to the trade of the country to play up to the government's lead. The principal Dominions, he says, are sympathetic about the good that the exhibition has done them and they are quite prepared

Time to Start Winter Fires
THE setting in of colder weather brings with it an increased number of fires due to faulty heating apparatus and defective chimneys and flues. Statistics show that 75% of all fires in the United States originate from this strictly preventable cause. Though statistics are lacking it is fair to assume that a similar ratio prevails here.
NOW is the time to overhaul heating plants and chimneys—Our Fire Prevention Department is at the service of industrial and mercantile insurance risks in connection with the installation of new heating apparatus or the use of present plants. Good insurance advice may mean a better rate for you and—more important—may prevent a costly fire with its consequent interruption of business.

Neutrality Proclaimed By Anhwei Province; Railway Line Is Cut By Soldiery

Nanking, Nov. 8.—Traffic on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway stopped completely yesterday, the cause being the cutting of the line at Tungkow. Reports here are to the effect that Anhwei Province has followed the lead of Shantung and proclaimed neutrality. Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan has dispatched troops to Hsuehchiao, and will return to the effect that Anhwei has been ousted by his subordinates. Whether these rumors are true or not it is certain that General Chi Hsieh-yuan's position is now much more difficult, which probably is the reason for his sudden return to Nanking.

Since General Chen Tse-chi, Tull of Shantung, has proclaimed neutrality, which means he is pro-Feng, the position of Anhwei has become more uncertain. Gen. Ma Lich-chia, a former Anfu adherent, has been a loyal follower of Chi of Kiangsu. In fact, he has had to be subordinate to Chi, for Ma's military power is only about one third that of Chi's. During the Kiangsu-Chekiang war, Gen. Ma, although against Lu, did not fire a single gun until after Lu's departure. This was because Anhwei has only five brigades of which three only are his own men and part of them had to fight the bandits.

Since Ma did not render any great service to the cause of Chi, and many of Chi's generals who fought so desperately did not get any reward, Chi has since considered the replacing of Ma by one of his own generals. The one who fought hardest for Chi was General Chen Tiao-yuen. Chi decided to make General Chen Tull of Anhwei and Ma the civil governor of Kiangsu, replacing Governor Han.

The arrangement was all ready, but unfortunately the coup d'état occurred in Peking. Thus Chi has had to depend upon his own resources.

Tull Ma, a former Anfu General

now must make his choice between Chi and Feng and it is not thought that Ma has courage enough to stand independently. Yet Anhwei has proclaimed neutrality. It is rumored that it was General Wang Pu, son-in-law of the late General Ni Tse-chun, and now the commander of the first brigade of Anhwei, who took advantage of the opportunity. It is said that he and the other generals formed an alliance against Ma, who had insufficient courage. These Ma has been ousted, and Anhwei is once more independent. On Thursday Nov. 6 the Anhwei army cut the T. P. R. at Tungkow, some twenty miles from Pukow. In order to protect themselves, Chi Hsieh-yuan, after hearing of this, immediately ordered the second brigade to protect Pukow and the fourth brigade to protect Hsuehchiao. During the night he again ordered his soldiers sent to Hwa Ching, some ten miles from Tungkow. The writer went to Pukow and then to Puchen and saw soldiers marching to their new destinations. The soldiers said they were instructed to fight Shantung on behalf of Wu Pei-fu, and apparently they were ignorant of the change which had occurred in Anhwei.

The writer then went to the S. N. R. station at Hsuehchiao and saw many soldiers being transported to Nanking. It was said that Marshal Chi and his staff were at Soochow and expected to return to Nanking the next day. The soldiers seemed to be loaded with loot from the Shantung district. Many of them have gold watches on their wrists and rings on their fingers. Their chief conversation was about methods of looting and incidents which occurred in the looting process. One soldier said that one of his friends had so much money in his pocket that it hardened him to carry it. Another said that he saw a soldier who had so many gold bracelets on his legs and arms that he could hardly move around. The writer was told by an official of some rank that General Chang Yung-ming, a son-in-law of the late General Li Shun, would have captured Kiangsu for himself, had not General Hsiao Yao-nan, a staunch supporter of Wu Pei-fu, ordered him to return to Hsuehchiao. Rumors are in circulation that some of the Kiangsu generals may take the same action against Chi, but Nanking seems to be quiet except that the soldiers again are here in large numbers and are being conscripted constantly.

Communists Halt Trial By Singing The Internationale

(Reuter's American Service) Reval, Nov. 10.—The trial of the 159 Communists on the charge of plotting a coup d'état began today at the Military Court. The accused interrupted the proceedings by singing the "Internationale." The President, after the restoration of order, warned the accused that in the event of further disturbance they would be tried in contumacious.

M. C. C. DEFEATS SOUTH AUSTRALIA BY NINE WICKETS

Adelaide Cricket Match Is Concluded; Hearn's Fine Bowling

(Reuter's Service)
Adelaide, Nov. 10.—The match between M. C. C. and South Australia was concluded here today in windy weather. A thunderstorm came on during the luncheon interval and afterwards the wicket favored the bowlers.

M. C. C. completed their first innings for 406, Woolley making 98 and Hearn 75. The innings lasted 592 minutes.

South Australia in their second innings were all out for 103 in just over two hours. Hearn, who bowled excellently and completely puzzled the batsmen, took five wicket for seventeen runs.

BATting SCORES AVERAGED HIGH IN PENNANT GAMES

Babe Ruth Still Leads Despite Poorer Home-Run Hitting

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Battles are over in the major league pennant year. The 1924 campaign while lacking the sensational, individual home-run hitting that marked Babe Ruth's performance in 1923 and 1925, as a whole, nevertheless, was a phenomenal season in batting.

Rogers Hornsby, repeating as batting champion of the National League, finished with an average of .424, setting a new mark for hitters.

Babe Ruth closed the season with a mark of .378, falling down in his home-run hitting in the closing days of the race. He made 46 homers, however, the high mark of either league.

Hornsby, if not for a sprained back that put him out of the game for ten days at a time when he was at the top of his form, possibly would have established an inconceivable batting record. Still, the St. Louis star lacked one of sharing with Frisch, of the Giants, the honor of being the league's leading scorer. He crossed the plate 121 times and was two behind Jack Fournier, of Brooklyn, in hitting homers. Fournier finished with 27. In total base-bitting, Hornsby was in a class by himself. Playing in 143 games he made 227 hits for a total of 373 bases. He hit 25 homers, 14 triples and 43 doubles.

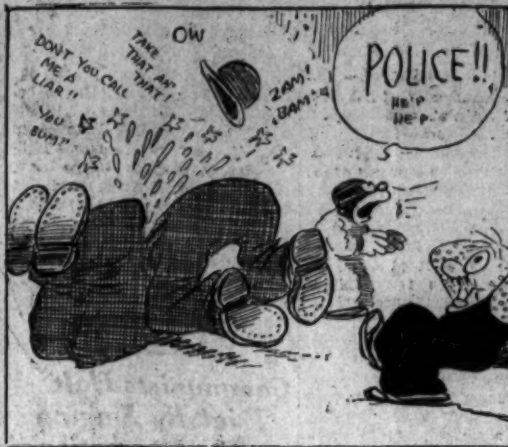

In base-stealing honors of the league went to Max Carey, of Pittsburgh, who had 49, with Cuyler, also of the Pirates, second with 32. Zach Wheat, of Brooklyn, wound up the season as second best hitter, with 375. Young, of New York, was third with 356, and Cuyler, of Pittsburgh, fourth with 354. Other leading batters: Roush, Cincinnati, 350; Bressler, Cincinnati, 347; Fournier, Brooklyn, 333; High, Brooklyn, 333; Williams, Philadelphia, 327; Frisch, New York, 327; Bottomley, St. Louis, 326; Gowdy, New York, 325; Kelly, New York, 325.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Final unofficial averages for the American League shows more players batting above .300 than there were in 1923. In team batting Detroit forged ahead sufficiently in the final week to tie Cleveland for the honors in team hitting with 398. The conquering Washington club and St. Louis tied for third and fourth places with marks of .293.

Jamieson, of Cleveland, played second fiddle to Ruth in batting, closing the season with .358, while Falk, of Chicago, was third among the regulars with .352. Eddie Collins, also of the White Sox, was fourth with .350. Collins was the leading base-stealer with 44.

Ruth's nearest rival in home run hitting was Hauser, of Philadelphia, who hit 27 homers. Ruth made 200 hits for the season, but Sam Rice leads the league with 216. Stanley Harris, youthful manager of Washington, led in sacrifice hits with 42. Other leading batters: Bassler, Detroit, 347; Speaker, Cleveland, 346; Hellman, Detroit, 344; Goslin, Washington, 343; Miller, Philadelphia, 340; Cobb, Detroit, 337; Myatt, Cleveland, 336; Rice, Washington, 335; Boone, Boston, 335.

he is expected to be a serious competitor for victory in this year's match, which appears to be especially between him and Webb.

Competitors can enter either as individuals or in teams. The team contest last year was won by the English, with Webb, Huxley, Watson, and Pike. The Irish team were second. Seven teams in all started last year, the remaining five being the Scotch, French, Portuguese, Italian, and Japanese.

It seems likely that the team competition this year will again be between the English and Irish teams. Both have been training hard, and are rounding into splendid shape. The French and Portuguese are also hard at work. The Japanese are expected to put in a good team, and there are rumors of a German team. Little has been heard from the Scotch and Italian teams.

As regards an American team, a few spasmodic starts have been made, but due to the uncertain conditions during the State of Emergency, and to the mobilization, a team has not been formed. There are a couple of Americans who have been practicing, however, and it seems likely that they will be able to get together with some others to make up a quartette and enter an American team in the match. There is still about a month's time for training, and it is possible that four men will come forward to represent the United States in this international contest.

STRICT WEIGHT RULINGS IN NEW YORK STATE NOW

State Boxing Commission Adopts Important Ruling

Ring champions engaging in bouts in New York State in the future will be compelled to make their class weight and defend their titles, and in the arrangements for all other matches the weights for the thirteen ring divisions specified in the rules and regulations of the sport governing body must be observed, under a ruling adopted at a recent meeting of the State Athletic Commission. The only exceptions to the new rule will be made in the event that two champions are matched, in which case the lighter champion will not be compelled to make his class weight.

The rule, as it was adopted, follows:

"Whenever a recognized holder of a championship engages in a contest in this State he must be at the weight required by the class for which he holds the championship, except when a champion of one class competes as a contender for the championship in another class. No matches must be made by any clubs except at the weights called for in Section 1 of the boxing rules."

Section 1 of the boxing rules specifies the following classes and weights: Junior flyweight, 109 pounds; flyweight, 112; junior bantamweight, 115; bantamweight, 118; junior featherweight, 122; featherweight, 126; junior light weight, 130; lightweight, 136; junior welterweight, 140; welterweight, 147; middleweight, 160; light-heavyweight, 175; heavyweight, all over 175 pounds.

The rule is expected to eliminate the growing tendency of boxers' managers and club matchmakers to arrange bouts at other than standard weights as was the case in the recent Jack Zivich-Archie Walker bout in Brooklyn, and is expected to produce greater activity among the various champions.

The effect of the new rule on champions is expected to result in a greater number of title bouts or enforced fitness for those champions who decline to make their class weight for every one of their bouts. It has been customary for a title-holder to defend his title as provided by the law, once every six months, and in the interim between championship matches engage in bouts at catch weights where a title is not at stake.

Lenin Though Long Dead Dominates Russ Thought

Moscow, Sept. 15 (By The Associated Press).—Like so many other commanding figures in history, Nikolai Lenin, creator of Soviet Russia, is greater in death than in life. If the founder of the modern communist state has failed to become a "god" or a "saint," he has literally become, in the minds of the Russian Bolsheviks, an idol of as great fame as America's Washington or Lincoln. In the center of Moscow's famous "Red Square" Lenin lies mouldering in a frail wooden tomb, a symbol to the Bolshevik intelligence of the death of Russia's greatest rebel and of the renaissance of a new Russia.

Throughout the day and night, within the walls of the Kremlin, as sacred to Russians of the monarchic period as Lenin's tomb is dear to the heart of the Communist, thousands of Russians who have embraced the Soviet faith pass in silence before this strange mortuary chamber of cedar and oak and, without getting a glimpse of the frail body within, stop to do reverence to its departed spirit.

There are those, of course, of the old Czarist regime, who look upon the wooden sepulchre as a grim reminder not of the death of a man but of the destruction of the old Russia. It is to guard against any untoward demonstration from such as these that guards are on duty at the tomb and behind the Kremlin walls, ready with bayonets to suppress the slightest gesture of insurrection.

But it is not alone at Lenin's tomb the Bolsheviks pay homage to his memory and works. Countless streets, villages, towns, railroad stations and even newly born children have been named after him. In every store, restaurant, hotel, theater, museum, railroad station and even on locomotives and upon airplanes high in the sky one sees lithographs of the revolutionary leader. They are there, whether the occupants or observers like them or not. Leninism, the Communists would like to have one believe, has supplanted real religion in the minds of the people, which the government set out to exterminate.

The visitor's gaze is met all over Russia by the image of Lenin. If his likeness is not represented in plaster busts in every shop window in every town it is found in the schoolbooks, on posters, in every government office, on postage stamps, in tourist souvenirs of Russia. His portrait is seen even on public lawns, ingeniously worked out in flowers and foliage. It probably will soon appear on Russian coins. It is already furthest-blended on household dishes and pottery.

"Leninism" is as common in Russian terminology as Marxism, Communism or Socialism. The Soviet authorities have seen to it that Russia's children are duly instructed in the life and achievements of their first revolutionary head. They have just appropriated nearly $1,000,000 for the wider circulation of Lenin's writings among the population. They have set aside a huge sum for the erection of a magnificent mausoleum of marble and bronze to supplant the present wooden tomb of the "father of Modern Russia." Today, seven months after Lenin passed to the unknown, the pile of green-stained wood that rests above his head in the heart of Moscow, "Mother of Russia," is the focus of all the ideals, hopes and aspirations of Russian revolutionists. To the rest of Russia the mortal tenement of timberwood, with its mute occupant, typifies only a destructive epoch in Russian thousands years of life.

Wedding

CONIBEAR—SEARLES
(China Press (for Cosmopolitan))
Ningpo, Nov. 7.—In St. Paul's Church on the Horse Road, which was kindly lent for the occasion by Bishop Molony, occurred this morning at 9:30 the wedding of the Rev. A. A. Conibear and Miss Florence Evelyn Searles. The church was very prettily decorated for the occasion by Mrs. Molony. The bride was accompanied by two bridesmaids, Miss Mabel Fortune, B.A. and Miss Dorothy M. Doidge, B.A. and the groom was accompanied by the Rev. E. W. J. Perry, D.D.C. The wedding service was conducted by the Rev. W. Tremberth, chairman of the Methodist Mission assisted by the Rev. George W. Sheppard, formerly of Ningbo and now in charge of the British and Foreign Bible Society in Shanghai. Rev. W. P. Bates presided at the organ and played the wedding march.

The bride was given away by Rev. W. J. Heywood. The church was filled by the many friends, both Chinese and foreign, of the bride and groom. After the ceremony in the church everyone went to the home of Principal and Mrs. W. P. Bates at the English Methodist College where a reception was held. After everyone had had a chance to meet the newly married couple and several pictures of the occasion had been snapped, Mr. and Mrs. Conibear started on their wedding trip to the summer house at Da Laen Suen a few hours' west of Ningpo.

THE GREAT WHITE WAY

The Wonder Picture of New York's "Main Street"

An actual mirror of the great metropolis and a thrilling, tense story of celebrated figures of sport, art theatre and the newspaper world. The most realistic and interesting reproduction of musical comedy, the prize ring, race track and of night life on Broadway ever filmed.

No one ever dreamed of such a cast

Anita Stewart	T. Roy Barnes	Oscar Shaw	Tom Lewis
Harry Watson	Dore Davidson	Hal Forde	Olin Howland
Damon Runyon	Ivin S. Cobb	H. C. Witwer	Ned Wayburn
George McManus	"Bags" Baer	Nell Brinkley	Fay King
Winsor McCay	Billy De Beck	Harry Hirshfeld	Hal Conner
Earl Sande	J. W. McGurk	Stanley Forde	Frank Womercley
Johnny Gallagher	Pete Hartley	"Kid" Broad	Billy Gould
F. Ziegfeld, Jr.	John Hennessey	Joe Humphreys	Tammany Young

and the entire "Ziegfeld Follies" chorus

Adapted by Luther Reed from the story "Cain and Mabel," by H. C. Witwer. Directed by E. Mason Hopper. Settings by Joseph Urban. Score by Frederick Stahlberg.

Robert Gilbert Welsh in the Evening Telegram Says:
"The Most Illuminating Film of Gay Life That Has Ever Been Made."

F. Mordaunt Hall in the New York Times says:
"Will Have Difficulty in Keeping the Crowds Away."

Harriette Underhill in the Tribune says:
"One of the Most Entertaining Pictures We Have Ever Seen."

The greatest ovation ever given a motion picture was tendered on the opening night by the most representative and enthusiastic audience in the history of any cinema theatre.

Don Allen in the Evening World says:
"Makes the Recent Firpo-Dempsey Battle Look Like a Chess Match in Slow Motion."

Andrew A. Freeman in the Evening Mail says:
"At Last There Is Something New on the Screen."

McElliott in the Daily News says:
"Breathes the Spirit of Broadway."

Social Service Institute Of Chinese Y.W.C.A. To Give Its Lecture Program

The Social Service Institute of the Chinese Y. W. C. A. will begin its annual program of lectures on Friday next, November 14, at the Association rooms, 61 Range Road. The course of lectures will continue until November 25.

The services of a number of excellent speakers have been obtained and the Institute is confident that all who attend the lectures this year will have an interesting and profitable time. The plan is for the speaker to devote half an hour to his talk, after which there will be a fifteen minutes' discussion. On Friday, November 21, the last two hours will be given over entirely to discussion. All the lectures and discussions will be in the Shanghai dialect, or in Mandarin.

The topics selected are the home, industrial problems and social service. The daily program is as follows:

Friday Nov. 14, 2:00-2:30 Registration.
Friday Nov. 14, 2:30-3:15 Lecture and Discussion "The Home."
Monday Nov. 17, 3:30-4:15 Lecture and Discussion "Industrial Problem."
Tuesday Nov. 18, 4:15 Refreshments.
Thursday Nov. 20, 5:15 Refreshments.
Friday Nov. 21, 4:30-5:30 Lecture and Discussion "Social Service."

Details of lectures and discussions are as follows:

"THE HOME"
Friday Nov. 14, 2:30-3:15 The Family and Family System.
Sunday Nov. 16, 3:00-4:00 Cultivation of the Spiritual Life in the Home.
Monday Nov. 17, 2:30-3:15 The Art of Being Married.
Tuesday Nov. 18, 2:30-3:15 The Home and Home Management.
Thursday Nov. 20, 2:30-3:15 Housing the Family.
Friday Nov. 21, 2:30-3:15 The Family and the Community.

Splendid Artistry Of Mura And Koka Shipoff Seen Here

Mura and Koka Shipoff, who talented young dancers now on the program nightly at the Ma-jestic Hotel, have already made a name for themselves in Shanghai and the Far East generally. They are unquestionably the finest young ballet artists in this part of the world, and Mura is well entitled to her name of "The Baby Pavlova."

The writer had the pleasure of seeing these splendid young artists almost two years ago, when Mura must have been about twelve years old, and the wonderful exhibition of fairy-like lightness and grace she gave at that time, assisted by her talented brother Koka, is something that is not soon forgotten. Since that time, however, this brilliant pair have toured the Far East, taking

In Hongkong, Manila, Singapore, and Penang, etc., as well as points to the north, going as far as Japan, and have met the keenest appreciation of their artistic powers.

Mura and Koka appeared at the Manila Carnival last February, where the Committee on Awards conferred a first prize upon these young artists for really high-class artistic, classical, and character dancing. This is fully earned, and those who will have the opportunity to see these young dancers in Shanghai, before they leave on a longer tour with a ballet company they are forming here, may consider themselves most fortunate.

"THE STREET"

CINEMA

"The Street" is another addition to the number of pictures which provide a welcome contrast to conventional screen drama. It is an outstanding contribution to the film art.

"PEOPLE"

The producer, who made "The Street" is a man who can visualize words and can turn literature into picture. A man in a mood; a desire for this for that music-girl; is it fair? He has hit upon the highly effective method of presenting thoughts pictorially. It is a wonderful production.

"DAILY TELEGRAPH"

Without doubt the most significant contribution yet made to the art of the silent screen.

"DAILY EXPRESS"

"The Street" is the most comprehensive study of psychology yet portrayed upon the screen—it is one of the most ambitious efforts in sincere realism yet achieved.

SINO-SOVIET CONFAB TO BE RESUMED SOON

(Eastern News Agency)
Peking, Nov. 11.—Apropos of the rumor that as a result of a recent interview between Dr. C. T. Wang and M. Karakhan, the Soviet-Chinese conference, which has been at a deadlock for the last six months, will shortly be resumed.

M. Karakhan, Soviet Envoy in the Far East, states that it is true that Dr. C. T. Wang has of late expressed his desire to have the conference re-opened as soon as possible but that it will take some time before the suspended conference will be resumed. M. Karakhan goes on to state that with regard to the conclusion of the Mukden-Soviet agreement, careful re-consideration is necessary as a sequel to the change in the situation in China and that preparations are needed before the conference in question is actually reopened.

Paris Anxious For Loan Flotation

Paris, Nov. 10.—At the Congress of the Republican-Socialist Party held on November 3, stress was laid on the importance, both from a financial and economic point of view, of the successful flotation of the forthcoming loan. The Congress also affirmed its policy of close collaboration with the Herriot Cabinet.

Gang Of Thieves Believed Broken Up By Police

A robber gang, nearly as active as the Forty Thieves, is believed to have been broken up by the sentencing yesterday of six Chinese, all of whom had from two to 12 charges of robbery against them.

Yung Sz-sung with four previous convictions and four charges against him drew a five year sentence. Tsang Zen-sung, two charges, was sentenced to six months. Yan Ah-bien, two charges and one previous conviction, got two years. Loh Ah-yong, nine charges and two previous convictions, drew 18 months. Woo Ong-sung, 12 charges and three previous convictions, was given four years. Tsang Zi-az, two charges, was given three months. Chinese householders were complainants. The men were charged with stealing clothing, furniture, kitchen utensils, silverware.

"Dry" Act Is A Failure, U.S. Druggists Declare

Atlantic City, Sept. 23.—The administration of the Federal Prohibition Enforcement Division has been an entire failure, resulting not only in serious injury to legitimate industry, but in reality aiding bootleggers.

This arraignment of Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes and his predecessors was made today in the report of the Committee on Legislation of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, now holding its fifth annual convention here.

The report, which met with the unanimous approval of the delegates, including those from the American Chemical Society, was submitted by C. Mahlon Kline of Kline, French & Co., wholesale druggists, of Philadelphia.

"The industries depending on the use of alcohol," it is stated, "have steadily declined owing to the drastic and unjust methods employed by the prohibition office, while establishments engaged in the use of alcohol illegitimately have flourished by falsifying bonding warehouse records and, obtaining alcohol without tax, are flooding the market with preparations containing it at a price far below the standard at which legitimate concerns must sell."

CRAMTON BILL STRONGLY OPPOSED

The report declares that the only person able to deal intelligently with the alcohol-using industries is the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and strenuously opposes the Cramton Bill, which has passed the House and which subjects the prohibition commissioner solely to the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, eliminating the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the right of appeal to him.

"The men in the prohibition enforcement business do not see beyond their noses," it is stated. "They think of alcohol only in terms of 'booze,' and they do not realize that it is the only known universal solvent employed in practically every industry, and manufacturers must be able to obtain it as easily and as conveniently as any other raw material."

"It is useless to expect that the manufacturer who needs alcohol for legitimate purposes can receive wise and conservative treatment from men whose business it is to chase criminals and who only think on this plane."

"The manufacturers of this country using alcohol are a unit in opposing the policies of the prohibition enforcement division of the Treasury Department. There is absolutely nothing that they do of which we approve. They have been and are a rank failure in every way."

EFFORTS AT CO-OPERATION FAIL

"We have come to this opinion as a result of four and one-half years of practical experience, trying in every conceivable way to co-operate with the prohibition enforcement officials and receiving no sensible treatment except at the hands of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who knows what the problems and needs of the manufacturer are and who is capable of meeting them."

"It has been bad enough in the past, but the enactment of the Cramton bill would give a free hand to officials whose chief concern is the pursuit of the law violator, and who, as demonstrated by our last bitter experience, give very little consideration to the needs of manufacturers who employ alcohol as an essential chemical raw material and dealers who are obliged to handle it."

The report states that the Cramton bill is now on the Senate calendar by vote of a majority of the Senate Judiciary Committee, "not a member of which, with the possible exception of Senator Sterling, is at all familiar with its provisions." The report urges that the manufacturers demand that the bill be withdrawn from the calendar and a hearing held.

"The prohibition policy of the Government, by creating fake drug stores which sell practically nothing but liquor, has seriously injured the business of the legitimate wholesale druggists throughout the country," it is charged in the report of the Committee on Credits and Collections.

This committee also declared that "every-day transactions should be practically upon a cash basis" and then asserted that the present greatly disturbed condition regarding terms and discounts is due "largely to the somewhat unexpected results from Uncle Sam's policy under the Prohibition act."

counts is due "largely to the somewhat unexpected results from Uncle Sam's policy under the Prohibition act."

A DISPENSARY SYSTEM URGED

"The ruling of the department," the report states, "which allowed the establishing of a wholesale drug house with a limited capital of $25,000 brought a large amount of injustice to our business and created competition which practiced destructive methods in order to carry on the liquor business contrary to the Prohibition law."

"We are waiting patiently for the Federal Government to eliminate such parties so that a legislative dealer may be freed from this unjust competition."

"One of the greatest steps that could be taken to free the jobbing drug trade from the present destructive terms and discounts would be to ask the Federal Government for amendment of the present Prohibition law, by dropping out the term 'druggists' as the distributor of liquors, and ask the Federal Government to put the liquor business upon a governmental dispensary basis, leaving alcohol to be sold by the druggists only for medicinal and mechanical uses."

Modern Parsons Advocates Of 'Muscular Christianity'

The old notion of a clergyman as a mild, slight, unassuming person in a rusty clerical coat and thick eyeglasses, received a jolt when Eric H. Liddell, a British divinity student, won the 400-meter race at the Olympic Games in 47 3/4 seconds. In fact, it has been receiving so many jolts during the past few years that it will not be long before it is entirely knocked into bits.

"Muscular Christianity," as the Literary Digest calls it in an article about ministers who have also been athletes, is becoming more and more prevalent.

There was the late Lieut. Bevin W. Maynard, for instance, often called the "Flying Parson" or the "Sky Pilot," who entered the World War from a theological seminary and won the first double transcontinental air marathon in 1919 by his flight from San Francisco and return.

There was Harold C. Cutbill, a theological student at Boston University, who thrilled thousands at the New York Athletic Club in 1920 by winning the famous "Baxter Mile" in a spectacular race in which he finished with a 5-yard lead on his closest rival. Only recently, at his church in Massachusetts, he stood on the bank of a pond, with his congregation around him, and explained various swimming strokes while Miss Ethelinda Bleibrey, champion woman swimmer, demonstrated them in the water. For the Rev. Mr. Cutbill believes that "athletics and religion are of mutual benefit. Clean athletics keep young men from crooked paths."

Baseball and football, as well as flying and the cinder track, have their theological stars. When "Max" Carey became associated with the Pittsburgh Pirates over a decade ago, he was studying for the Lutheran ministry. Everyone knows the baseball record of "Billy"

Sunday. And the Rev. Oscar Wolfe Randolph, rector of a Virginia church, was a famous Southern quarterback in his day.

Lay Christianity, too, has its famous athletes. According to the Literary Digest, "Dave Fultz, one-time outfield star and batsman of the Yankees, was a zealous lay spokesman for the cause of religion and one of the best-known Y.M.C.A. workers in the country." And "Ted" Jones of Yale was well known as a leader of prayer meetings as well as on the football field.

SAYS MEXICAN LOAN IS SURE OF SUCCESS

Austin Banker Ascribes $40,000,000 Has Already Been Subscribed

Presidents were made on October 6 that Mexico would resume payment of interest on its $700,000,000 reorganized external debt before December 15 next. J. L. Arlitt, Austin banker, who started Wall Street by offering for subscription $50,000,000 of new Mexican Government bonds, said through his New York office, that $40,000,000 of the new offering had been subscribed and that "the loan is an assured success." Alberto Mascareñas, Consul General of Mexico in New York, expressed himself as gratified with the apparent success of the loan and said he was certain the debt service would be resumed soon.

Mr. Arlitt's announcement of the "assured success" of the loan was coincident with a new attack on the loan, launched by Rafael Zubaran-Gapmany, who was President of the Provisional Government backed by Adolfo de la Huerta. Zubaran, who is known in Mexican political circles as "El Progresista," began his attack on the new bonds on the ground that the oil production tax pledged under the new loan contract was "absolutely fictitious," in that it served as the "only income" with which the Mexican Government is now supporting itself. His statement was issued through Wilbur Bates, an American, who formerly resided in Mexico.

In his statement, the New York office of J. L. Arlitt offered figures of Mexico's revenues in 1923 to show that the oil production tax of 42,000,000 pesos was only one-fifth of her total revenues which in 1923 were reported at 208,000,000 pesos.

Consul General Mascareñas said that only part of the oil production tax receipts would be needed to pay interest on the $40,000,000 new bonds. Annual interest charges on these bonds are 3,000,000 the first year, and debt amortization $5,000,000, leaving for the first year a total of $8,000,000 against estimated oil production taxes, he explained, of $20,000,000 a year. A balance would thus be left of $12,000,000 which Mr. Mascareñas said would be turned over to the Mexican Government. Carrying charges would decrease after each annual payment of interest, he pointed out.

In a telegram to J. F. Herbert, of Jerome B. Sullivan & Co., 42 Broadway, Mr. Arlitt indicated that the $50,000,000 loan had been underwritten. By most of Wall Street's bankers, it had been assumed the loan was placed on a commission basis. Mr. Arlitt's statement, on this score again gave rise to the question as to who his bankers were. It was eventually learned that the Committee of International Bankers on Mexico was not interested and the identity of other strong financial interests who might have underwritten the loan was kept secret.

Mr. Arlitt's message to Mr. Herbert was in answer to a request for confirmation of the statement that 65 percent of the bonds had been sold. The announcement of this sale was even more surprising to Wall Street than the announcement of the loan. It was not believed that a Mexican loan of such size without Wall Street backing could be sold. Mr. Arlitt's message to Mr. Herbert follows:

"I am pleased to confirm that over 65 percent of Mexican oil production tax 6 percent bonds have been sold. Present indications are that entire issue will be sold in ample time to meet payments to Mexican Government without need of calling on underwriters to advance money. The loan is an assured success. Please note that oil production tax pledged as guaranty on this issue of $50,000,000 bonds is more than twice the amount of the oil export tax that serves as the principal guaranty of the $700,000,000 outstanding obligations of Mexico that are included in international bankers' agreement of June 16, 1922.

Success of the loan would give Mexico a balance after payment of commissions, and providing for the 1924 interest payments on both the new loan and the old debt of Mexico, which President Obregon will receive for deposit in the national treasury. President Obregon was said to have approved of the new loan largely because of a desire to place the Government's treasury in good shape before turning over his office to his successor, President Calles.

HUGE PROFITS IN WHEAT ARE MADE AT $1.57

Sales Of 5,000,000 Bushels To Europe Sends Price To Highest Record

Chicago, Oct. 6.—The United States has a natural corner in supplies of dry wheat and rye of good quality at the present time, and with further rains in Europe and in the Canadian Northwest, foreigners have been stampeded into buying millions of bushels of cash wheat and also rye. Sales of wheat to Europe were estimated as high as 5,000,000 bushels for the day, and heavy buying by exporters and foreigners advanced May wheat here to $1.57, a new high for the year, and 20 cents over the inside figure of two weeks ago and $1 cents over the low point made earlier in the year.

The highly strained condition of the market resulted in millions of bushels of long wheat, rye and oats being sold out by speculators who foresaw the present condition developing many weeks ago, and big profits on small holdings were taken.

Andrew W. Cutten, who started the grain trade in May by taking a delivery of millions of bushels of cash corn and merchandising it at a profit estimated at $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, is said to have more than duplicated his feat in the wheat, rye and oats markets; but as only part of his line is said to have come out so far, it is impossible to estimate what his aggregate winnings on the advance have been. There was heavy selling of grain during the day credited to Mr. Cutten, with a lot of wheat coming out that is said to have shown a profit of 30 cents per bushel or more.

Many of the local traders who were pessimistic a few months ago regarding the outlook now are smiling and have "cashed in" for immense profits at the expense of the foreigner who has been forced by a wet harvest in Europe and Canada to come to this country for supplies and has taken the cash grain at the highest figures in many years, exclusive of the war period.

The largest trading in grain in years is in millions of bushels passing from one operator to another without attracting attention. The trade gossip had it today that one commission house, Jackson Brothers & Co., had sold around 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels of wheat, several million bushels of corn and oats and a big lot of rye. It was the talk of the board that the big selling was for Mr. Cutten, who was in New York. But late today it was denied by an official of the Jacksons that he had been the leading seller of grain.

As Mr. Cutten has predicted that wheat would sell above $1.50 and bought on sharp declines at times, it is estimated that his profits on trades cashed in and those said to be open amount to more than $2,000,000 in hand and prospective in Chicago and in Winnipeg. The Federal Government will take around 50 percent of the profits in income taxes.

Many small traders have taken profits of $20,000 to $50,000 out of the advance in wheat and rye in the last two months.

Foreigners have been the largest buyers of grains in all American markets and in Winnipeg. They have had to have it to provide against any shortage in foodstuffs this winter. This is confirmed by a statement issued today by the Department of Agriculture, France and Italy have reduced their import duties on foreign grain and indicate that it may be necessary to reduce the per capita of consumption through the use of substitutes.

Wheat in Winnipeg jumped up 5 to 6 cents early today to a new high mark, with October up to $1.60 and May to $1.60, but met profit taking and closed only 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents higher for the day at $1.63 1/2 and $1.55 1/2, respectively.

At Chicago May wheat reached $1.57 and finished at $1.54. Corn was up to $1.16 1/2 and closed on a break to $1.13, while rye after touching $1.40 early closed at $1.37. Oats had a little flurry and closed at 61 1/4 cents after reaching 63 cents early. They are the only grain that has not had an advance in proportion to that in other cereals. In two weeks wheat has advanced 20 to 22 cents, corn 12 to nearly 14 cents, oats 10 to 11 cents and rye has led all with jumps of 28 to 31 cents.

Mexican Loan Still Puzzles Financiers

The mystery of the new offering of $50,000,000 of Mexican Government 6 per cent bonds deepened in New York last month when J. L. Arlitt, in dispatches from Austin, Texas, was quoted as saying that 65 percent of the issue, or $32,500,000 worth of the securities, already had been sold. New York bankers again denied they were interested in the loan, had subscribed to it, or knew of any one who had. According to Mr. Arlitt, not many of the bonds were placed in Wall Street, the total having been made up of smaller sales scattered throughout the country.

In the absence of a statement from the Mexican Government other than confirmation of the loan announcement "in substance," Wall Street was unable to form much concerning the negotiations. As on the two preceding days, the Austin banker would not say whether the loan was underwritten or whether it was handled on a commission basis. More of a mystery was the identity of the purchasers of the bonds. By some it was believed that Mr. Arlitt had associates with large resources, and color to this belief was lent by the Austin banker, who said that he was not at liberty to disclose their names.

While Mr. Arlitt declined to say whether Henry Ford was among his associates, the latter was reported to have disposed of the question when he was quoted by a Wall Street news agency as saying that he was not in the Mexican deal but was thinking of floating a loan for the Esquimaux.

To the holders of more than $700,000,000 of old Mexican bonds the new loan has created a new problem. Should the $50,000,000 issue be placed, it was feared that this amount of bonds might also have to be included in the debt agreement in case of an interest default. This would necessitate the complete revision of the present Mexican debt reorganization. Should Mexico prove equal to the task of maintaining service on the new issue above the amount needed to pay the scaled down service on the old bonds, it was pointed out, all would be well. But to do this the southern Government would have to increase by $2,000,000 its annual payment on external debt, which under the debt reorganization already is $15,000,000 and will reach a maximum of $25,000,000. Thus far, Mexico has been unable to meet the $15,000,000 payment.

The Mexican view was understood to be that with a new loan it could pay its defaulted interest and, with the balance left, set its house in order so as to provide needed revenues for future payments.

What is the Enchanted Hill?

Make Plea To Equalize U.S. Rail And Sea Rates

Washington, Oct. 6.—Lawyers, traffic representatives and steamship men from New England, New York, the South Atlantic States, the Gulf States and the Middle West met in Washington this afternoon to discuss from a national viewpoint the so-called port differential cases now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the United States Shipping Board.

In the forefront of the meeting were Julius Henry Cohen, counsel for the Port of New York Authority, and Wilbur Laroe Jr., counsel for the New England ports. They had suggested the conference to bring about a meeting of minds and to arrive at a common principle upon which the various sections of the country could stand in the proceedings.

The situation was presented that New York City, the greatest port on the Atlantic Coast, was supported by practically all the other harbors on that coast in an endeavor to bring about an equalization of rail and ocean rates so that all would be upon the same basis.

It was pointed out that over a period of many years the various ports and the several sections have been almost constantly fighting each other for the purpose of obtaining rate advantages or removing rate disadvantages. It is believed that his policy will be completely changed and that henceforth there will be an agreement in the common interest.

AGREE ON EQUALIZATION PRINCIPLE

There are now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission several cases in which the New England ports seek more favorable rates on export and import commerce and several similar proceedings filed by the South Atlantic ports. Before the Shipping Board there are pending several consolidated cases filed on behalf of Charleston, Jacksonville and Norfolk bringing into issue the propriety of the ocean differentials.

Mr. Cohen and Mr. Laroe proposed at today's meeting that, in the national interest, the several sections should agree, if possible, upon a principle which would bring to an end those differential rate wars, and they suggested as the only practicable method an equalization of both rail and ocean rates.

Reference was made to the fact that the principle of equalization has already been endorsed by the New England ports, the New England railroads, the Port of New York Authority, the Traffic Vice President of the New York Central Railroad, many Southern ports and many Western shippers, and in certain public expressions by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Shipping Board.

Mr. Cohen and Mr. Laroe in expressing the view of the Port Authority made this joint statement:

"Gradually there has emerged a new conception, which with reason can be defined as the American conception. It is the distinct idea, that all the benefits and advantages that may accrue from public ownership and operation of carriers can be secured through national regulation by appropriate Federal agencies and yet retain the benefits of the initiative of private ownership and operation."

DOMINANCE OF NATIONAL INTEREST

"The harmonizing principle is found in this, that the national interest shall at all times dominate, the private interest shall at all times be subordinated to this national interest; the country should be looked upon as one great whole, and thus railroads and waterways and the great national arterial system through which the commerce of the country shall move with the greatest freedom of flow, and with expedition and economy."

"To this end, declares Congress, the decisions and orders of all Federal regulatory bodies shall be in the direction of coordinating all rail and water transportation, so systematizing the service that the entire country shall be served by the cheapest and most expeditious routes of transportation, utilizing the facilities of all rail and water carriers both privately and publicly owned and so stimulating them, as well as the various ports, that competition on their part will take on the shape of offering the best and most effective service to the country.

"In this manner the self-interest of the ports, as well as the self-interest of the carriers, is not only subordinated to the national interest, but is made to function in the great public service of the country, each port for the national interest, not the local interest."

"The Shipping Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission are now dealing separately with these problems."

"We feel strongly that the way out is to have the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Shipping Board make their determinations after joint consideration."

"The law not only authorizes this but contemplates that it shall be done. This is the purpose of the petitions filed by the Port

Illegal Taxes And The Opium Situation

THE interview with Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, Inspector general of Chekiang and Fukien provinces, published in The China Press yesterday did not hold out much hope for those who may have expected that all illegal taxes would be discontinued at the close of the recent internal hostilities. As a matter of fact, the chances now are that there will be more "illegal" taxes even than previously, the reason being that everybody is "broke" now and in tremendous need of funds. As an evidence of this the Chinese residents of one provincial capital not a thousand miles from Shanghai recently stated their conviction that new "taxes" were to be instituted that would net something like $800,000 annually. Just what was meant by this was not stated, but that the people had opium production in mind, was the implication.

Just as the World War brought burdensome taxation in Western lands, it is inevitable that new forms of taxation are bound to follow the recent internal conflict in China. And worse than taxation is the opium business. The Conference on the opium situation now in progress at the seat of the League of Nations has served to concentrate the attention of the world upon the opium menace in China. Although China's delegates at Geneva tried to prevent the exposure of the opium situation in China, the light was let in and finally China's delegates were forced to admit the revival of the business on an extensive scale in their country.

The reason for a revival of opium cultivation in China as well as the institution of the so-called illegal taxes, has been militarism. Military Governors had to have funds for keeping up their ever-growing military establishments and since the Customs tariffs could not be raised except with the consent of the Powers, the only other field open has been domestic and it has been worked to the limit. In Canton we have seen the worst examples of taxation madness and unless something is done now to improve the domestic situation in China, the experiments of Canton are quite likely to be extended to the rest of the country. And in the extension of modes and methods of taxation, foreign trade is bound to suffer. This is inevitable.

Whether the efforts of the present regime in Peking to bring about peace in China are to amount to anything is extremely questionable. It looks as though the Yangtze Provinces are about to form a new alliance against the North and if this comes about, the old story of scheming and preparation for a new war in a few months, is bound to eventuate. And this naturally means that all tax abuses and other abuses including opium production instituted for the purpose of raising military funds are likely to be continued and new ones added.

It would all point to the fact that the Powers, if they value their trade interests in China, have got to arouse themselves to the situation of China and do something to promote unification of the land. In many ways the situation in respect to China and the other nations is quite similar to the situation which existed in Europe following the armistice. The United States and Great Britain finally had to get back into the continental Europe situation, not for reasons of altruism, but for the purely selfish reason of saving their own trade and investments. Exactly the same situation exists out here. It may be easier to close the eyes to the troubles of China, but when the troubles of China become so disturbing that they are affecting the commerce of the world and even the general peace of the world, then the nations having a stake in the commerce of China and an interest in the preservation of world peace, have got to devise some method for helping China out of the hole in which the country now finds itself and out of which it apparently cannot extricate itself unaided.

The Outlook In France

THE prediction made during the war years that the close of the conflict would witness a period of restlessness and change has been amply fulfilled by the course of events. In Britain and France we have seen a succession of Ministries since the close of the struggle, although the first-named country gives promise of having now settled down to at least four years of constructive administration with the return to power of the Conservative Party. Simultaneously with the return of the Conservatives in England, the world has seen the triumph of President Coolidge and his supporters. The internal political question of two of the leading countries of the world, therefore, may be said to have been settled for the next four years, at all events. French politics, however, is still in a state of flux, and so long as such a condition of things exists, it is not easy to see how cohesion can be secured between the United States, Britain and France which alone will be conducive to setting up the promised era of post-war reconstruction.

Two significant messages from Paris last week justify the surmise that the career of the Herriot Cabinet may be short-lived. MM. Millerand, Magino, Le Troquer, Reibel and Francois Marshal are among the founders of the so-called National Republican League, which, by the issue of a manifesto, signals simultaneously M. Millerand's re-entry into politics and the inauguration of a strenuous Right campaign. The manifesto appeals to Frenchmen to support the League's fight against demagoguery, revolution and anarchy, whither, it asserts, the Radical-Socialist alliance is leading the country. The Parisian Press, we are told, regards this development as of serious import. Another event of some significance was the creation of a somewhat tense scene in the French Chamber last Friday, when a proposal to interpellate the Government on the necessity of publishing its intention in regard to the imposition of a capital levy was postponed by 333 votes to 117 after M. Herriot had urged postponement, making it a question of confidence. The proposal arose in connection with an uproarious debate on the high cost of living. The Premier met the awkward situation in an adroit manner. He made the non-committal declaration that the first essential was to balance the Budget and said that it was impossible to wipe out in a few weeks the effects of four years of bad government. M. Herriot's maneuver has not settled the issue. It has only postponed it.

The early fall of M. Herriot will not come in the nature of a surprise to the world, or that section of it which makes it its business to follow the progress of world currents. It will be recalled that in the early part of last month a political crisis that was expected to overthrow the Herriot Government developed over the demands of the civil servants for increases in salaries. The Federation of Government Employees insists on a minimum wage of $300 yearly, which would add $100,000,000 to the Government's expenditures and upset the budget balance. Only through the most dexterous juggling of figures, charging various items to Germany as "recoverable" through eventual payments of reparations, and by entirely ignoring foreign war debts and not earmarking one centime for payment of interest on amortisation, has the Government, on paper, balanced its budget. When the Morgan loan was granted in March to save the franc, the Government pledged itself not to inscribe a centime of budget expenditures without providing receipts to cover. Seeking a compromise, the Minister of Finance, M. Clementel, offered to increase the minimum wage to $260, making total budget additional expenses of $50,000,000, but the federation refused this. It has been felt in political circles for some time that only heroic measures can save the situation, the sole remedy being the establishment of the eight-hour day, the dismissal of 100,000 State employees and Government abandonment of operation of certain State monopolies like telephones, telegraphs, railways, tobacco and matches, which are operated at losses. The granting of concessions for private exploitation of these industries, with fixed rentals and a share in the profits, is believed to be the only solution. "Such action would require a dictatorship to establish," a Paris correspondent recently said, "because the huge mass of State employees would fight solidly to maintain their soft jobs." Premier Herriot promised the electors the increase during the campaign, and he is said to favor it, but M. Clementel has gravely warned the Premier of the impossibility of providing extra expenses in the budget.

Nor is the economic situation the sole reason for the difficulties of the Herriot Government. There are also political factors involved in the gravitation of M. Herriot toward treating with the Soviet. As all the world knows, the Frenchman is the most thrifty and prudent of peoples, and he is, above all else, bitterly opposed to leniency to the Soviet in the matter of its debt obligations to France. The Soviet has sufficient finesse to try to evade its monetary obligations in some way or other, as Britain's experience has shown. You can trifle with a Frenchman so far as his good nature will permit, but you can never trifle with his pocket. And it is precisely herein that M. Herriot is likely to meet his Waterloo.

Other Views Than Ours On The War In China

MODERN WARFARE IN CHINA
(The Times, Watertown, N. Y.)

The present revolution in China has demonstrated that China has abandoned her old methods of war. The old-time Chinese strategy was the firing of firecrackers in the air and the beating of tom-toms. The Chinese believed that he could scare the enemy and the side which could make the most noise would achieve the victory. A great amount of gunpowder was burned but the casualties were slight.

Desperate fighting marks the progress of the present revolution. The leaders on both sides are displaying modern military strategy. Machine guns, artillery and airplanes are being brought into use. The defending forces have constructed a series of elaborate fortifications. The fighting is reminiscent of that on the Western front during the war, although on a much smaller scale. There is hand to hand bayonet fighting, something which the last generation did not think the Chinaman was capable of.

The individual Chinaman makes a good soldier. He is something of a fatalist. He is patient and uncomplaining. If the exigencies of war prevent his rations from coming up, he accepts this fate without a murmur. Above all he possesses personal bravery. He does not know fear. If what he is fighting for, but not lions of soldiers have died for a cause which they did not understand.

China is waking up. It is learning the lessons of modern warfare in a large measure from America. Chinese youth have been educated at West Point and they have taken back to China the theory and practice of warfare. Napoleon said that when China awoke, the world must look out. China is not thoroughly awake yet, but there are tremendous possibilities there. With a population of 400,000,000 China possesses the greatest mass power in the world. It could be made into a powerful military machine.

China's greatest weakness is the lack of central authority and the great strength of the provincial governors. If China could be welded into a strong central government it would be a great country. The world must look, however, to outside influences. The Manchurian provinces are greatly under the influence of Russia and are tinged with bolshevism and the soviet authorities would like nothing better than to consolidate the Manchurian provinces and add them to existing military strength of Russia. China under the wrong influences can be a menace to the world. Under the right influences it can help stabilize the world.

A JEWISH TRIBUTE TO SENATOR LODGE

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:
Sir:—"Israel's Messenger," the local Zionist organ, will pay the following tribute in its issue of the 5th proximo, to the late Senator Lodge:

"The passing away of Senator Lodge, one of America's leading statesmen, will be sincerely mourned by the Jews throughout the world. The deceased played a great role—if not the greatest—in securing the admission of the American Government in favor of the Balfour Declaration, recognizing Palestine as the Jewish National Homeland. The unanimous vote of the Senate in May, 1922, was obtained largely through the dominating personality of Mr. Lodge who had espoused the Zionist ideal with a devotion second to none. There can be no gainsaying that his friendly attitude towards Zionism has done much to inspire his colleagues to support unanimously the resolution introduced by him in the Senate and thereby bringing into line one of the leading world Powers to aid the cause of the Jewish restoration. Senator Lodge was a sincere advocate of Zionism. He had a remarkable vision of the future greatness of Jewish Palestine and in the ability of the Jews to re-build their ancient Homeland. The loss of such a great statesman will be deeply felt and regretted throughout the whole world. He was a man remarkably endowed by nature, gifted with the qualities of leadership, capable of the highest enthusiasm in the cause of liberty and truth. He had earned for himself an imperishable name, one which the genius of history would delight to recall."

BOLSHEVISM IN CHINA

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:
Sir,—I congratulate your correspondents on the able manner in which they summed up the apparent political situation of China. It must be admitted that Chinese politics is most difficult to understand, for this reason, the best politician often failed to know, or even to predict what changes may take place in the next moment.

China, in fact, is run by a small clique of men, who divide and subdivide themselves into parties backed up by militarists of different classes, who are truly responsible for the internal unrest. The lamentable failure of the various governments formed during the past thirteen years is certainly beyond the tolerance of the nation. Can anyone assure us today that the forthcoming new government with men picked out of the same clique by issuing a decree freeing all punishable wrong-doers for reinstatement into high offices could mean unification and peace and would bring about prosperity to the nation? If answer to the question is in the negative, we should expect more and even greater struggles than those we had hitherto in the immediate future.

Sir John Jordan, the retired British Minister for China practically tells us the only way for China to gain peace is to grant autonomy to each Province. This we all know; but, unfortunately, the Minister did not tell us how to give effect to the autonomy, when the Provincial Tughans refuse to quit offices and deliver up their functions to the people.

Indeed, we should not allow the Bolshevik element to germinate in China. The recognition of Russia by China should be on strict principle in line with the great Powers. The continued negotiations with M. Karahan in the hours before the new government is being shaped appear to be a conspicuous matter, which calls for the careful attention of the Chinese themselves and of the Powers, who have interests in China.

GENERAL FENG, A NEW TESTAMENT TYPE OF CHRISTIAN

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:
Sir:—I was struck by an editorial which appeared in yesterday's issue of the "North China Daily News" which was entitled "An Old Testament Type of Christian." Probably many of the readers of "THE CHINA PRESS" must have read the same. For their sake and the sake of those who may like to know what are the opinions concerning Gen. Feng that have been expressed in papers other than "THE CHINA PRESS" I would like to ask for a brief space in your correspondence column for the publication of my reply which reads as follows:
"Your editorial of yesterday, taking issue with Sir John Jordan in his description of General Feng as an Old Testament type of Christian, is interesting but rather misleading. However, I am not here to defend General Feng, but I cannot help saying a word that your editorial is a little too unfair in dealing with General Feng and that of Sir John Jordan is a little less just.

"To me, however, none of you have done General Feng justice in stating what he is or appears to be, for he is neither the type of Christian Sir John Jordan declared nor is he in the least a Chinese Brutus as you would have us believe. I say this because I know General Feng to be a simple Christian, no more and no less. There may be as many definitions of a Christian as there are authors who try to define what a Christian is, or ought to be, yet it is perhaps safer to say that one is always becoming a Christian than to say that one is a Christian, for no one besides Christ himself has ever been perfect and worthy of the name. It is in the former sense that I call General Feng Christian, as I know he personally strives to follow Truth as closely as any human being is able to follow and to respect God more than man.

"If it is at all permissible we may say that General Feng is a New Testament type of Christian more than he is of the Old Testament type, as Sir John Jordan declares. Christ himself gives us a good example. When he saw the money changers polluting the sanctity of God's temple he had no hesitation whatever to throw them out. And when his parents found him in the temple sitting in the midst of the doctors he said unto them, 'How is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?' And they understood not the saying which he spoke unto them. In other words, according to our interpretation, Christ is more mindful of God's will than that of his own parents. Christ even once raised the question, 'Who is my mother and who is my brother?' He said, 'He that doeth the will of God in Heaven is my mother and brother.' This revolutionary spirit of Christ, I dare say, is the type of Christian General Feng strives to be. Yes, he respects Tao K'un, but he loves righteousness more. Yes, he admires Wu Pei-fu but he cares more about the suffering of the people. In the face of two alternatives, which should one choose, man or God?

"Mr. Editor, you put a whole lot about Feng's betrayal of Wu Pei-fu, but did you ever consider the betrayal of Wu to Feng and Wu's revolt against Tuan? Have you read a recent statement given out by 'Little Hun' charging Tsao K'un and Wu Pei-fu of treachery, which had caused Feng to turn against them both? I presume that you as Editor of the North China Daily News must have. Can you not also recall Chen Chuan-ming's revolt against Dr. Sun Yat-sen? If I am not mistaken, I think there was quite a bit of opinion appearing in your paper at that time eulogizing the act of General Chen Chuan-ming against Dr. Sun Yat-sen as a new moral principle that the Chinese must adopt, that is to say, to break away from the old virtue of being more loyal to individuals than to principle. If you do recall I, therefore, cannot understand why an incident of the same nature, occurring in the same land, should have been interpreted so differently. Is it because they occur at different times that the public opinion concerning loyalty and disloyalty has changed between now and then? If it has I certainly have not heard nor perceived.

"We are as much opposed to treachery as you are. But we also believe that in this stage of civilization, or in any stage of civilization short of the millennium, one must always be prepared to act wisely like a serpent and tamely like a dove. That Wu Pei-fu was attempting to subjugate all China by force and that the poor people had to bear the brunt of it all, is not to be denied.

"Now the question is, How is General Feng going to accomplish the desire of the people, whose unanimous cry has been for peace? Can he do it by tucking under one arm the Bible and under the other his resignation? But he was wise enough to outwit the people's enemy in bringing about the recent coup d'etat or else he could not have served the purpose of the people. If this is treachery, God help us have it! Personally, I have every reason to believe that General Feng, Dr. C. T. Wang, Dr. George C. Hsu and others who helped recent coup d'etat and evicted the young Emperor, had each and all been prompted by a desire to obey the will of the people. It is then not altogether wrong to say that they were trying to respond

DRESS

By Mary Marshall

Detachable High Collars, Swathed About the Neck Like Cold Compresses, Are Worn With Evening Frocks

If any of the women who were grown up in the last century were to write down a list of the details of dress that they regarded as fashion atrocities of the nineteenth century, surely many of them would include the high detachable collar. Bad enough to have any collar, worse still to have it high, and double worse to have it detachable.

Do you remember the high choker collars of shirred velvet with an enormous butterfly bow of velvet in the back that women added to their infinite discomfort after they had hooked themselves into their skintight princess frocks—way back in the nineties?

And here is Jenny of Paris daring to launch high collars, and separate collars at that. The only comfort is that they are not stiff. And half the dressmakers of Paris seem to be launching some sort of high collar. There are even low-cut evening gowns with separate collars worn to circle the neck like a cold compress for the croup.

Sometimes, to be sure, the high collar is a natural outcome of the leaning for the Directoire note in fashions. It goes hand and glove with the tiered capelet, wide lapel, sleeve frill and jabot.

Any designer who knows the temperament of American women at the present time must know that they will not easily succumb to any fashion for high collars. If they take up with the idea at all it will be only in the way of collars high at back. The American woman seems to have a special dislike of anything that constricts the front of her neck.

There is an interesting sort of compromise shown in the sketch. One consists of three tiers of upstanding fur fringe on a henna-colored frock, finished with a vest of silver cloth. This collar may be worn open, or looped together over the collarbone. The other frock in the sketch is of midnight blue satin with a collar of black broadtail, held about the neck by a band of embroidered red satin.

sometimes given Thursday afternoon off while one is required to come home to get dinner. In other households both maids are never allowed out at the same time—not even on Sunday evening. But it is difficult to arrange this. Usually the work can be so arranged that both maids can be spared Thursday afternoon.

In the one-maid house, she is usually given time off every Thursday. Sometimes she is asked to come home for dinner on alternate Thursdays. So however you arrange it, if there is help, Thursday is a day when the regular routine of housework is the most that can be got through. I know one household where the only really heavy piece of cleaning that is done on Thursday is a general and intensive cleaning of the refrigerator. There is no time on Friday with the other cleaning, and it is inconvenient on Saturday, when extra cooking is in progress. In some households absence of maid or cook on Thursday makes this a desirable time for dining at a restaurant. Elsewhere it is the custom of Thursday night to have cold meats and salads, things that can all be prepared ahead of time and served easily.

One woman I know makes a habit of making out weekly menus and a weekly program every Thursday. By this time she usually knows the plans for her family for the following week-end, what company there is to be, etc. She provides herself with small pads of paper, and for every day of the week she makes a special list of "things to do." On other slips of paper she makes her menus, beginning with the next day—Friday.

to what they deemed to be a heavenly call, for it is recorded in the Chinese Classics that "Heaven hears and sees as the people hear and see. Heaven shows its approval or its wrath as the people theirs." In the present case certainly the people do not want war. War, what for? On the contrary, what the people clamored for and prayed most earnestly for was peace.

"You also seem to blame missionaries for upholding Christian men like General Feng, Dr. C. T. Wang and so forth and so on. By no means do we hold them as our idols for worship. But surely they are men of the present hour, they are men of sterling character worthy at least to be mentioned. Why should not we uphold Christian men of this type?—the New Testament type, if you please. What objection is there to hold them up as examples to modern young Chinese or to speak of them in public for missionary purposes?"

"Christ himself would undoubtedly be considered a rebel if he were living in this day, and any person, Chinese or otherwise, who attempts to apply his principles in a thoroughgoing and uncompromising manner to a political situation in any modern state is bound to be stoned at. But people who call themselves Christians will be able to prevent the uncompromising practice of the revolutionary doctrines of Jesus for a good many years yet to come, we dare say."

Sincerely yours,

R. Y. Lo.

When Dreaded Croup Comes
A thing of dread, that comes in the night without warning. Just a hoarse, metallic cough, a choking, gasping for breath, a threat of suffocation. Oh! the relief of knowing that there is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. See how it clears away the choking phlegm, stops the hoarse cough, and brings rest and sleep to the little sufferer. Sold everywhere.

To keep your Child under a Glass Dome is an impossibility.

It would however be the only way to protect your children against inhaling dangerous germs. Formamint kills germs which may have gained entry into mouth and throat before they can do any harm. Let the little ones play about freely with friends, if only they suck a Formamint Tablet a few times a day (i.e. when going to school and when coming home).

Formamint protects them against Sore Throat, Influenza, Tonsillitis, Scarlet Fever, Measles and Diphtheria.

Use Formamint yourself too. Do not wait till it is too late and you, or your child, are ill, but avert the danger by stirring the use of Formamint to-day.

From Dr. Hopkirk's book "Influenza":
"In Formamint Tablets we possess the best means of preventing (and curing) infective processes in the mouth and throat, which, if neglected, may lead to serious complications."

Tact Is Great Asset In U.S. Police Circles

Desk Lieutenants Often Show Wisdom Of Solomon In Settling Disputes; Case Of Non-Paying Fare

New York:—Probably the desk lieutenant of a city police station seems as much of the frailties of human nature as any one in the wide world. He sees so much of the ups and downs of life that nobody could blame him if he became cynical and pessimistic and evinced a desire at times to kick the station house cat out of doors. Most Lieutenants, however, having served a long apprenticeship on the force before being elevated in rank, are able to regard complacently the sordid incidents which are nightly brought to their attention. And if a Lieutenant has a keen sense of humor he can often extract a little fun out of his job. Once there was a certain Lieutenant. There are not many in the Police Department today like him. He did not like to see any one, even prisoners, depressed and he had a happy way of turning little tragedies of life into comedies and sending the actors home or to a cell with a smile on their faces.

Glancing up from the blotter one night he saw that his visitors were a taxi driver and a somewhat inebriated fare. The story the two told was old and commonplace. It is often repeated in the stations. The driver maintained that the fare owed him $4, and a little questioning convinced the Lieutenant that the driver's claim was correct.

The passenger, in a drunken mood, not only repudiated the claim but stubbornly refused to pay anything. Most Lieutenants would waste scant time on such a dispute. They would either lock the refractory passenger up or, if he was sober enough, send him direct to the Night Court and let the Magistrate settle the argument. But this particular Lieutenant could look below the surface of things. He saw that the fare was middle-aged and well groomed. Perhaps, he reasoned, he has a wife and grown-up children who look up to him and respect him. It was plain that the man in a normal condition would not have acted in such a manner. He decided to give him a chance.

THE INTERROGATION
"Why don't you pay this man what you owe him?" he asked. "You are not broke, are you?" The fare shifted his legs uneasily, but made no reply. "Well," roared the Lieutenant after a pause, "you look like an all-fired, regular guy, not the kind of man who would beat a poor taxi driver out of few dollars. Thank Heaven I've got some money with me, and though you're a perfect stranger to me, I'm not going to see you locked up. You owe this fellow $4 and I'm going to pay the bill for you." And digging into his pocket he counted out the money and extended it to the driver, who was too taken by surprise to accept it.

The next minute the fare came to life. He stepped between the driver and the Lieutenant. "Say," he cried hoarsely, his eyes filling with tears, "you're all right, you are; the doggonest, squarest cop I ever met! An you'd pay my bill, would you?" he blubbered. "Well, looks here, you'll do no such thing. Fraps you think I ain't got money, and producing a fat wallet he peeled off a five-dollar bill, which he handed to the driver, telling him to keep the change. Then considerably sobered by the unusual experience, he bade his benefactor a grateful good-bye and departed, shaking his head in a puzzled manner.

"Were you really going to pay that fellow's bill?" asked the clerical policeman when the Zeppelin May Establish Dirigible Routes.

Count Eric von Zeppelin, nephew of the inventor of the Zeppelin dirigible, has just sailed for Europe after a two-months tour of America, during which he studied the practicability of establishing commercial Zeppelin routes in the United States.

One chill afternoon he returned from the barber shop with thoughts of Lena and his comfortable steamed bath. On entering his little home he was confronted with cold, naked walls. The object of his affections had mysteriously vanished, taking with her all of the furniture and kitchen utensils. Everything, indeed, was missing except his night uniform. He blew his nose noisily and continued his story.

After weeks of tramping about the city he had discovered his wife in a flat near by the station house. "She, however," had obstinately refused to admit him. Neither threats nor tender words could make her open the door. "Go away, go away," she had called through her door. "I don't love you no more."

Accordingly he had come to the station and would the kind Lieutenant furnish him with a policeman, so he could make Lena open the door and give him his furniture back?

The Lieutenant explained that the police could not enter the flat; that they could do nothing, and that he would have to go to court and get a warrant. The little man retreated crestfallen, but the entrance to the station he encountered a citizen who had overheard his story.

"What the Lieutenant told you is legally true," said the new-found friend. "But then, faint heart near won't fair lady. She loved you in uniform and why not don it and return to the flat, when she will welcome you with open arms."

The little man thanked him for the advice and departed in high glee.

On the following night, dressed in his gay uniform, with his bright scarab dancing at his side, he returned to his wife's flat and knocked on the door.

"Go away," she said. "I don't love you no more."

"But, Lena," he protested, "open the door and look at me; I'm your husband in the uniform you love."

Reports differ as to what happened after this announcement. At any rate, the little man, angered at these rebuffs, drew his sword and broke a panel of the door. There followed much blowing of police whistles, and a few minutes later two burly policemen escorted the singing soldier, a dejected figure, to the station. His uniform was badly mused, and his bright scarab clanked noisily on the floor. His wife charged him with attempted assault.

station had resumed its automatic calm. "Say," chortled the Lieutenant, "do you think I'm crazy? I'd like to see myself giving money away."

A sad-eyed, wearied little man with a carefully waxed mustache wandered timidly up to the desk of another station house, one night and whispered his story into the sympathetic ears of the Lieutenant. Lena, he confided, had come to him late in life, and though he and Lena, the object of his affections, were past 50, they had married and settled down to housekeeping. When they first met he had worn the gay uniform of a singing society, and he had to put it on frequently in order to please her. At last he came to realize, as often happens, that it was the uniform and not he upon which her affections were centred. Accordingly he wrapped the uniform up carefully and put it away in a chamber box. After this her love for him grew cold. She repulsed his advances, and though he attempted to woo back her affections by serving her breakfast fast to her in bed she was not impressed.
